GEN. LEE ON GETTING READY FOR BREAK-FAST.-During the late war, while the Army of Northern Virginia was encamped around Orange Court House, Gen. Lee called upon Mr. Joseph Hiden, and asked if Mr. Hiden could entertain two y ung ladies at his house, which was situated just outside the village.

The General said he wished to have these young ladies near him for a while, that he might have the privilege of visiting them oc-"Are they your daughters, General?" asked Mr. Hideo. "No; not daughters, but nieces; though I feel very much as if they were my daughters," said Geo. Lee Mr. Hideo readily

Of course, they received much attention from army officers, and night after night the parlor was full of company to a late hour. One day General Lee mot Mr. Hiden on the street, and asked, "How are the young ladies getting on." Mr. Hiden replied that they were quite well, and seemed to be enjoying their visit. "I am alraid they give Mrs. Hiden a good deal of trouble," said the General, "Not at all," said Mr. Hiden. "They have a good deal of company, and are kept up late at night entertaining their numerous visitors, but I have noticed that no matter how late they sit up at night they are always ready for breakfast when the bell rings, and never keep the table waiting for them." "Oh. yes!" said General Lee; "they have been well raised."

A REMARKABLE MAN. - About as remarkable a character as one will meet in a journey through the West and South is General Leslie Combs. He lives at Lexington, Ky., and is in the eighty-third year of his age. He was a cadet at eighteen, a captain at nineteen, and a bearer of dispatches during the war of 1812. his services being of a particularly hazardous complexion. He fought the Indians, and was captured by them. Being offered his freedom by the gauntlet game; he started in the uneven match, and he owes his life wholly to the magnanimity of old Tecumseh. After this he vas confined with other prisoners, on the British ship Mary, where he had a bullet extracted from his shoulder, After remaining in the hands of the enemy about a week, he was released on parole, and when Jackson finished his battle at New Orleans he was exchanged. His career as a soldier and scout then closed. He then studied law, practiced it for some thirty years, earned a snug fortune and lost it all in attempting to free Texas. He aided in recruiting troops for the wars of 1847 and 1861 although he did not take the field as a soldier. In politics he is an old-time Whig.

It was in 1865 that Mr. Walter Hastings, an Euglish actor, gave it as his opinion, in conversation with Lord S., that solitary confinement is really not punishment at all, but simply a pleasant way of spending one's time. His lordship said that he would give Hastings £10,000 if he would submit to solitary confinement for ten years. Hastings agreed, and entered a dark cell, fifteen feet by ten in size, to fulfil the terms of the wager. He was allowed candles and books and plenty of food. He served out his term of voluntary imprisonment, has wen his £10,000, and is endeavoring to shake off the influences of his daugeon in the free air of Paris. He is only thirty-five years old now, but he looks at least sixty, and has not a word to say in favor of solitary confinement as a means of diversion. His story is a very interesting one, and must be true, because it is printed in a Paris newspaper.

UNDER THE FIFTH RIB -- On the Vicksburg and Meridian Railroad the other day, a Louisiana planter encountered a colored man whose face had a familiar look. The negro had his attention attracted likewise, and it was soon ascertained that he was once owned by the

"Yes, you once owned me," he remarked, "and I was no better dan a hoss. Now I holds an office, and is as good as anybody. "Do you want to do me a favor, George?"

inquired the ex-master. T'spects so, sah.' "Well, in case you ever tell any one that you hold an office, don't let on that I ever owned you, for, with this one exception, all my niggers turned out to be respectable people!"-Vickslurg Herald.

"Where's those fellows as brags about their science?"

"Gone home," was the reply. "Gone home, eh? Blow the luck, but if I hadn't missed the boat I'd been here in time to toe a mark with the best man in the Wonder if Joe Coburn trained any MILKING. - "The cow," writes a correspondent "is naturally sluggish in her movements were bought at low figures, to which we invite and should not be hurried out of her natural gait. She should never be driven to the place of milking faster than a walk, and if she has far to go the walk should be a slow one. Hurrying a cow when she is full and the weather warm, hastens the circulation of her blood, and heats both blood and milk. A very little heating of the blood perceptibly affects the wilk. It increases its odor, as well as raises its temperature, and modifies the butter or cheese made from it. On this account driving cows with a dog is not to be recommended.'

"I think we shall have clear weather today," he said, standing on the front stoop, examining the sky with the look of a man accustomed to that sort of thing, and who knows just what he is talking about. Then stepped back into the hall, gathered up his light waterproof in one hand and his umbrell in the other and sal-

AUCTION SALES.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE IN ALEX-ANDRIA COUNTY, VIRGINIA, FOR SALE.

Under the authority of the decree of the Cir-Under the authority of the decree of the Circuit Court of Alexandria county, Virginia, in the suit of Roach's executors vs. Roach's devisees, passed at the May term, 1875, of said court, the undersigned, who was appointed commismissioner for that purpose, will sell at public auction, on SATUKDAY, the 25th day of September, 1875, at 12 m, at the east front of the Market House in the city of Alexandria Va Market House, in the city of Alexandria, Va, the property in said county, known as "PROS-PECT HILL," late the residence of James Roach, dec'd., on the south side of the Arlington turnpike, and on the west side of the Alexandria Canal, binding on both containing about TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOUR ACRES.

About 140 acres of it is rich bottom land, valuable for agricultural purposes, and especially valuable for its rich deposits of brick clay. The remaining 84 acres extend to the top of the bluff and front on the county road from Alexandria to Georgetown. On this is a LARGE BRICK MANSION, with Stables and all necessary outbuildings, the site be ing unsurpassed by any in the county, or its vi-

The estate has been surveyed and divided into a number of parcels, one of 50 acres, embracing the Mansion House, &c.; another of 44 acres, in the bettom, with Frame House, Barn, &c., on the same; another of 35 acres, in the bottom, with no buildings. A number of small lots, binding on the canal, each containing about 7 acres, and other parcels Mr. Hiden. "No; not daughters, but nieces; though I feel very much as if they were my daughters," said Geo. Lee Mr. Hiden readily consented to entertain the young ladies to the best of his ability; and in a few days they were at home at "Montpelozo."

The material of which it is composed is of a desirable character, and furnishes all the necessary plant food for the cultivation of Wheat, Tobacco and Garden Vegetables. IT IS IN FINE DRY POWDER, READY FOR DRILLING, its mechanical condition being equal to that of any Fertilizer in this or any PRICE $18 PER TON OF 2000 LBS.
